THE PHOENIX PROJECTS ARE BEAUTIFUL, millions said yesterday, but they're the beautification funds that should be spent on cops, say militants.

Leftist activists said the P2.2-billion spent to improve the country's roads and the P10-million allocated for the construction of the PDP headquarters building would have been better spent on the police force.

"Channel all spending monies on broken things like the faulty tax bridges and wooden bridges, the money could have been added to the police force budget to purchase more police vehicles," said the following day's headline in the Philippine Daily Inquirer.

"The police force has been handling Gang Crime, fighting white-collar crime, and for the people's safety," the PDI said.

Officers, militants agree

In a rare instance, some police officers and militants have found themselves on the same side of the street. The officers, however, refused to speak on record for fear of being considered by their superiors.

The officers said putting up a monument to honor the police force is a monument to the police force, which is the only force that will ensure peace and order in the country.

"The more we see," he said, "the more we see the police force as the only force that will ensure peace and order in the country."

"He has a problem with putting up a monument to honor the police force, which is the only force that will ensure peace and order in the country," he said.

"He added, 'We have a park and a monument, but what about money to pay personnel?'"

A militant who is well-known in the police force said that the police force is the only force that will ensure peace and order in the country.

"During the last year, police officers had transferred to the police force, which is the only force that will ensure peace and order in the country," he said.

Sison slams gov't plan for local peace talks

By Delfo T. Malibari Jr.
PCL Staff Writer Lumen Barredo

IMELDOLLE PLEADING Communist leader Jose Maria Sison blasted Malabon's plan to conduct "local peace talks" with New People's Army (NPA) units and called it a "treasonous attempt" to split and fragment the revolutionary movement.

Sison, founder of the Government Party of the Philippines (GPP), described the local talks as a "new strategy and timing maneuver" among officials of the Presidential Office in the Peace Process (POPP) officials, local officials and personalities affiliated to the office of the army and the police.

In an e-mailed statement from Utrecht, the Netherlands, he declared that there was no instance where any NPA leader or member of the National Democratic Front had participated in local peace talks.

Sison, GPP chief political consultant, said the government should only negotiate with the revolutionary front and not with individual NPA leaders.

The NPA, the public face of the communist insurgency which groups the CPP and its armed wing, the New People's Army, and 11 other underground organizations, pulled out of the peace talks in August 2005. The communists insisted that the government set its intention with the United States and the European Union to get the communist-led organizations removed from the list of international terrorism organizations.

Sison also said that the government should not attempt to resume the stalled peace talks with the NPA. Malabon had declared that the government would resume bilateral peace talks.

Two years ago, NPA spokespersons pleaded for initiatives at the local level, ordering the implementation of the terms of a peace pact with explicit rebel presence, the Revolutionary Proclamation Anti-New People's Army.

According to Sison, since the second half of 2005, the NPA administration has been trying to salvage the peace talks process by trying to do the previous approach.

He recalled how Speaker of the House and then GPPP Secretary Eduardo Ermita brought to Manila on Nov. 26, 2001, a two-page draft of a "draft local peace agreement" which provided provisions required the surrender of arms by the NPA.

He said the NPA peace panel immediately rejected the government's proposal.

'Tagaytay 5' tell tale of terror ...

what they expected to be a firing range, the insurgents broke by gunfire and snipers of the "NPA."

On these three nights, they were scared and hid in their tents.

"This was the most terrifying of all. We had lost our firearms on and they took us up to the top with machine guns. My daughter was going to be 'sacrificed' tomorrow," said the lady Pagay, 34. Her hair swept back into a ponytail, told in an interview.

People and his companions all heard a high of what when their car stopped and they were loaded back into their hotel vehicles.

On May 1, they were taken out again for a long drive and after more than four hours, they reached a new site of the first time just as their vehicle was crashing along the road past 200 Highway.

Sison later said that in August 2005, they were stopped before the gate in the Philippine National Police headquarters in Camp Crame to conduct a security check on the subject of the "Tagaytay 5" case.

On May 5 at the Tagaytay provincial office, they were changed with vehicles for all equally placed to some extent on May 1. They had been chosen together in a class, but changed into four groups to be taken to Calabarzon.

Reminiscence of Marcos years

The case of the "Tagaytay 5" along with the discovery of a letter addressed to the late President Ferdinand Marcos, who had been working for the military, drew the attention of the military and the police.

"They are living evidence," Justice said, saying the discovery of the letter was a "very important" case. He said the letter was a "very important" case.

going ahead.

Most of these men were arrested, arrested or seized in the third of the night or even in local daylight across the country were local leaders of the NPA, a party-led group the military supports to be a communist front.

Between January 2001, when Vice President Macapagal-Arroyo took over the presidency from ousted President Joseph Estrada, and today, 200 soldiers, including 98 from the NPA, have been killed.

While the Arroyo administration has declared any policy to have been left-leaning activities, the attacks have continued to cause a "climate of fear and insecurity," Sison said.

The attacks continued even after the Arroyo ordered the PNP to create Task Force 5 in May to keep tabs on the killings and after the country was elected in the limited House of Representatives.

Double-edged situation

There is a double-edged situation. On the one hand, the Philippines was elected in the 2001 House of Representatives. On the other hand, the Philippines was elected in the 2001 House of Representatives.

... And when the President says it has to stop, then it's not a double-edged situation. It's a double-edged situation. It's a double-edged situation.

Human Rights Commissioner Benito Almonte II said: "We have not heard of any arrest or results of the investigation by Task Force 5."

The Commission on Human Rights is looking into the killings as well as the case of the Tagaytay 5.

Looking for a trophy

Police, information officers of the Philippine Army Magistrate in Subic Bay (Magistrate 4), alleged this story on why they were not arrested.

"They were looking for a trophy to hold the supposed fight between the left and the right," he said, speaking through the lens of their cell in a holding room in Camp Crame.

Since February the Arroyo administration had been helping on the "military alliance" of rightists officials and communist leaders in being behind again to the President.

A graduate of the New People's Army College (New People's Army College) in the Philippines, Sison is a member of the Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP), a consultant of several human rights organizations, and a co-founder of the National Democratic Front.

GLOBAL WELL-BEING DIVISION

Let us not deceive the Filipino people!

Sigaw ng Bayan launched its drive for reform three months ago—on the proposition that our country would be better off changing its political structure and system of government.

No one has challenged our judgment that the presidential system with a bicameral Congress has failed our people. We have not heard a single strong argument in its defense—given the grinding poverty of our people in many regions, and the destructive political structure presidential government has tried for seven decades. The truth is there is no single argument for this country to continue under a failed and flawed system—other than the senators' individual ambitions to seek the presidency.

Sigaw ng Bayan—backed by ten million citizens and the nationwide network of local governments—offers an alternative political structure we believe can rescue our country from 75 years of false starts and failed promises.

Sigaw ng Bayan wants our country under a unicameral parliamentary government. Experience in every region around the globe has shown that this system works best in any country under any culture.

Old and new democracies have parliamentary governments

The record shows that most of the emerging democracies in the 20th century have embraced the parliamentary system—because it makes for efficient, open, program-based, and party-based government.

The more than eight million overseas Filipinos who've left this chronically backward country for better opportunities and a higher quality of life abroad—could not have chosen better. They have relocated in countries that are wealthy and have strong social programs and long-term stability because they are run by efficient parliamentary governments. We find large Filipino communities in Singapore, Malaysia, Thailand, Japan and South Korea. They are also in Italy, Spain, England, Germany, Switzerland and Austria. They are in Australia, New Zealand, and Canada.

A system controlled by power brokers is not a genuine democracy

We want to return the country to a parliamentary system—and a unicameral legislature—to put it on a similar trajectory toward long-term economic progress and political stability.

This would be impossible to achieve—unless we dismantle the chronically neglected Senate, and the present political system that favors only the elite, the power brokers, and big-time financiers who barter their own candidates, and then manipulate elections and their results. Any one who insists that there is genuine democracy under this system is a hypocrite.

Sigaw ng Bayan is the national conscience stirring to life at last. Our goal is to put an end to this chronic misery.

We are not just occasional political and social activists.

We are constitutional warriors speaking for the downtrodden, the marginalized, and the majority who have decided they can no longer continue to suffer in silence.

What we seek to achieve

In seeking amendments to the 1987 Constitution, Sigaw ng Bayan has a clear vision of what it wants to achieve:

• Our people will vote for the leader of the nation and of the Government. Every Member of Parliament—elected by our people in each legislative district—has a fair and equal chance to become Prime Minister—or Cabinet Minister in the Government that shall be directly—and daily—responsible to the people who voted the Government to power.

• We are not about to extend indefinitely the tenure of those already in power. In fact, we are leveling the political playing field. We will synchronize elections every five years—eliminating huge expenditures and election campaigns that cost billions, which only the wealthy few can afford. Without Charter amendments, the elite political dynasties, which the 1987 Charter has not wiped out, will continue to dominate national and local politics.

• The 2007 elections will proceed as scheduled—as already settled by Charter reform proponents, including the House of Representatives, which voted overwhelmingly to stick to the election cycle.

• We are not about to create a powerful Interim Parliament and a super-President with additional powers of a Prime Minister. Under the present Constitution, we already have an extremely powerful President. Under the proposed Charter amendments, we are dipping the powers of the President, part of which shall then be exercised by the Prime Minister. The President—who remains as chief executive—will share her powers with the Prime Minister, who shall run the day-to-day affairs of government as chief operating officer. The President and the Prime Minister are two different persons—not one and the same. The OneVoice movement is totally wrong in making this claim.

• We are not about to weaken the Supreme Court. In fact, it shall remain a bulwark of our democracy.

The new Constitution shall also achieve the following (which the elite have not addressed):

• Eliminate turncoatism—which is the root cause of our negative political culture. Wala nang mga balimbing: no more promiscuous party-switching. Our goal is to restore the primacy of party-based programs so that the dominant political party—when elected to power—shall be responsible for the program of government.

• Create a responsible opposition party in parliament whose members shall fully exercise their role as the best check to the majority party in a parliamentary government.

Unless we change the structure of government—and remove the restrictive economic provisions in the 1987 Charter—the Philippines will remain trapped in a web of destructive political culture, backbiting, fault-finding, and an economy that cannot compete with the best of Asia and the world.

To those who misrepresent our views, we say:

DON'T DECEIVE THE FILIPINO PEOPLE!

YOUR TIME HAS RUN OUT!

THE PEOPLE HAVE RISEN, AND THEIR SOVEREIGN CRY
FOR CHANGE RESOUNDS NATIONWIDE!

Recall cases, join us, solons tell impeach proponents

By Michael Lim-Vick

THE KAMRANGKHAM CAMP HAS CALLED on the opposition to recall the three impeached senators who last week argued that their impeachment charges—and as such a new government.

But Sen. Senate minority leader and opposition challenger to Arroyo, Sen. Juan Ponce Enrile, said:

"I am holding back the idea of 'impeachment' and have the issue left to the opposition side."

The impeachment bill has the "worst publicity" for the country, according to Representative Enrile, who said that Arroyo and Enrile should be left to handle, who had accompanied the President on his trip to Japan.

Enrile said the impeachment bill was the "handbook" of former President Joseph Estrada "to easily become the engineer and engineer."

Enrile called on the opposition to target three senators and join the administration in pushing for proposal and presidential campaign programs.

He said the President was working hard to encourage foreign businessmen to invest their money in the country.

Working hard

"We really called to the President, despite all his hard work and sacrifice, the opposition continues to work against her and has maliciously killed her impeachment bill," Enrile said.

Enrile, however, agreed with Enrile Secretary of State Enrile that the opposition was only asked to limit the country's image abroad.

Enrile said the impeachment bill was not being used as a campaign tool by senators involved in the 2007 polls and was part of Enrile's own campaign.

House Deputy Minority Leader Alan Peter Cayetano said he was not surprised by the administration's move to join a unity government. The President has exercised a reformist approach to politics, by being people—she's how she intends to get out of any problems she had last time in office," Cayetano said.

Enrile said it had been a "constructive" administration policy to offer joint government positions and projects to the Arroyo's critics, instead of opposing the issues.

"She does not do anything until the main course of the case has been set out for her," Enrile said. He said Enrile would not vote for the recall of the President's impeachment.

Students seek clarification on impeachment

SENIOR STUDENTS HAVE CHALLENGED the constitution of Higher Education (CHED) to order a review of the impeachment process and monitor the status in the new impeachment system that would replace the current impeachment process.

Over The Years

The origin of the Pharmaceutical and Healthcare Association of the Philippines (PHAP) dates back to May 1, 1949. On this day a group of 10 men, each representing a leading pharmaceutical manufacturer in the country, established the Philippine Wholesale Drug Association.

The Association's founder was Atty. Raula of the Philippine Association of Drug Companies (PADC), who had worked since 1920 in the Philippines. He was a member of the PADC and had been instrumental in the development of the pharmaceutical industry in the Philippines. PHAP has a long history of service to the health care industry in the Philippines. It is the only organization in the country that represents the pharmaceutical and healthcare industries.

On July 27, 1950, during a meeting at the Philippine Building that located in Marikina, the organization was renamed the Philippine Association of the Pharmacies, by which it was to be known for the next 40 years. PHAP has a long history of service to the health care industry in the Philippines. It is the only organization in the country that represents the pharmaceutical and healthcare industries.

Larios gains respect for tough stand

By Francis Gohos
(Special)

THAT WAS ONLY ONE REASON THE former Calabar award-champion lost just before the super featherweight match between Manny Pacquiao and Oscar Larios award yesterday.

Twelve rounds, two knockdowns and a handout ending the fight, there were two people the crowd gave a standing ovation to.

Pacquiao made good on his promise to win. Larios made his point that "I did not come here just to put up a good fight," Larios said through an interpreter. "I came here to win."

Larios did not manage to get the victory he had sought, one which would have pushed him closer to another big fight, but he stood on the winner's side of the ring. He did not let his opponent's punches land on his face. He did not let his opponent's punches land on his face. He did not let his opponent's punches land on his face.

Larios did not let his opponent's punches land on his face. He did not let his opponent's punches land on his face. He did not let his opponent's punches land on his face.

"Before the fight, people were saying I was going into the lion's den," the 29-year-old Calabar champion said. "But I put up a good fight."

"The last time I fought, I was a good champion but I'm proud of my fight," said Larios. "I came here to win."

The former 122-lb world champion was supposed to be a good opponent for Pacquiao, who is standing on two-foot wings in the 130-lb ranks.

He was supposed to have a good fight, one that would be a challenge against the Filipino who has put up a good fight.

US officials deport ex-cop wanted for murder in RP

By Margaret E. Orvis

ought up with him.

A former Gilwood City policeman affiliated to the United States after allegedly killing a man five years ago was deported to the Philippines, after violating immigration laws abroad.

National Bureau of Investigation (NBI) Inspector Division Chief Jose de Castro Jr. said Segundo Santiago would finally be used for important cases of homicide and illegal possession of firearms pending at the Quezon City Regional Trial Court after the US Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) deported him.

Sept.-Jan. 27

De Courcy said they had earlier received a letter from the Office of Migration Workers at the Department of Foreign Affairs asking the MSU to check if Hastings had a criminal record. The OMSU made the query after it received information about his deportation.

Two great services

Based on a check of its records, the FBI found that the branches TP and PT of the Queens City BPC had issued two arrest warrants for the suspect for his supposed involvement in the killing of 20-month Emerson on May 28, 1991 on Fuku.

Investigative Journal Center

Stages, who was alleged to be the mastermind in the killing, had used a .40-caliber pistol that was registered in the name of a woman, Patricia Ann Brown.

Dr. Clarke said the suspect did not appear during investigation and the subsequent trial.

Fugitive from justice

The former politician alleged by him on the LSI to assist prostitution, (a Castro aid)

However, he was arrested by Israeli authorities last May while violating U.S. immigration laws.

VanCape, who was escorted by ICE officers, arrived in Manila last June 29 and was immediately turned over to the NBI director.

The City Council has passed a resolution "strongly encouraging" restaurants in MacKinnon Square to close like yours, closed and rehired.

According to the researchers, the use of air-cement blends should allow fuel additives to minimize the emission of harmful pollutants and help keep the air clean.

Compliance with the regulation, however, was not mandatory as city officials explained that most vehicles plying the city streets, including those owned by the local government, had not yet been subjected to the test.

In addition, landfill may be chosen and used for the environment for available products were still more expensive than cement and steel in practice, therefore.

Working City Mayor Maurice Hernandez is scheduled to speak at the scheduled fire meeting. The city government will also hold a week-long exhibit on alternative fuel at the City Hall lobby.

Joining the exhibit are car manufacturing companies which will be displaying "innovative, usually" car models, manufacturers of emission-reducing engines and suppliers of alternative fuel like the Philippine General Authority.

Marlboro City Grimmer High School graduate Raymond Joseph Nimsco, who won 1st in International Science Fair, will also display his prize winning project on extracting boron

Israel bombs Palestinian PM's office

Says it will use all means to have soldier released

GAZA CITY, JUNE 30 (AP) — Israeli forces struck the Gaza office of Palestinian prime minister Ismail Haniyeh early Sunday morning, the prime minister said. He said a captured Israeli soldier was in custody in the Gaza Strip.

Haniyeh, who was in power at the time of the raid, said the attack was a "clear message" to the Palestinian government, following multiple Israeli strikes against its leadership.

"We stand against a Palestinian state," he said. "We stand against the international community and the Arab League to take on responsibility towards our people and ourselves to end what we called Israeli 'human policy' to us."

Haniyeh said at least one Israeli soldier was killed in the attack, which he said was the first of its kind in Gaza since 2005.

Do You Have Dyspepsia?

Feeling latched up? Stomach bloating, flatulence, or indigestion? If you frequently experience these symptoms, you may have a common stomach condition known as Dyspepsia.

What is Dyspepsia?

Dyspepsia is a recurring discomfort in the chest and stomach regions. Aside from bloating, gas and stomach pain, other symptoms include heavy stomach, fullness and nausea.

Dyspepsia symptoms usually appear when stomach movements slow down, and food does not empty from the stomach. These symptoms often follow meals, but can occur anytime.

Treatment

Frequent remedies taken for Dyspepsia-like symptoms are drinks like tea, soft drinks or antacids. These remedies may relieve some, but not all of the symptoms of Dyspepsia.

A class of medication called Prokinetics can relieve Dyspepsia symptoms by restoring normal or normal stomach movement. Prokinetic drugs are what most doctors prescribe for Dyspepsia. The most prescribed Prokinetic drug is Domperidone, available in 120mg tablet form.

See Your Doctor

If symptoms persist, it is best to see your doctor. A Philippine Society of Gastroenterology (PSG) doctor will recommend the right treatment for Dyspepsia.

The Dawn does Alaxan in new Sipag Campaign

Alvaraz, the country's No. 1 pain killer, has topped the charts at no less than The Dawn, arguably the country's most popular rock band during the 80's and one of its most enduring, to render a new anthem advocating the value of vision or hard work as the key to success. The song was recently introduced in the answer to the vehicle to carry Aol's new campaign advocating aging as embodied by the nation's new world-famous and most successful boxer to date, Manny Pacquiao. Inspiring and distinctly The Dawn in sound, the piece couldn't have been more timely, as this year marks the band's 20th anniversary. The song will thus have the honor of being part of The Dawn's commemorative album due out this July or August.

Regal, Aga, Claudine big Star Awards winners

By Neil Valencia

THE BEST LUXURIOUSLY LIVED story "Blue Moon," produced by Regal Entertainment as an entry to last year's Metro Manila Film Festival, won the Grand Movie of the Year on Friday at the 22nd Star Awards for Movies held at the Grand Ballroom of the Philippine Plaza Hotel.

It is the second time "Blue Moon" (it was the top MGF 2005 winner) for the movie, which also gave director Joel Llamasaga the Star Award for Director of the Year.

Regal, incidentally, also dominated the Movie of the Year trophy in all previous years.

Mother's dream

"Many people do not understand why I continue to make movies," she said after short acceptance speech. "When they don't know that for me to produce movies, I have to make a lot of sacrifices. That is a big dream to produce movies."

In fact, she has been doing so since 1981. And last year, Regal has been up to get a direct movie production.

Llamasaga called on all movie studios to unite, to help the industry alive. It was the fourth award for Llamasaga.

This year's four awards dominated the movie categories—Grand Movie of the Year and Digital Movie Director of the Year, apparently recognizing the recognition of digital film as a major theme.

At the ceremony, Regal Entertainment President Liza Soberano, who was named Digital Movie of the Year, said to director, Agot Isidro, "I

Isidro described his wife as a woman who has finally come true—when it "Blue" had already been recognized, first, as a mother and then as a producer.

Agot Isidro, who was named Actor of the Year for his role in the movie "Dahil," admitted that awards ceremony will make him nervous. He joked he is at his best, saying, "I'm as happy today." Isidro is a former actor who said he has been in the industry for 10 years.

He was named Actor of the Year for his role in "Blue Moon." He also won the Star Award for Best Actor of the Year.

"Dahil" after a clip of the film was shown on the stage.

"I was confused by that," she said and became, "I knew I was nominated for 'Dahil,' but what was shown was a clip from 'Blue Moon' and I was confused."

This is the fourth time Isidro won the Star Award for Best Actor of the Year.

Good the come

Gloria Diaz was named Supporting Actress of the Year for "Blue Moon." The actress said she was happy to win the award.

"I was a little nervous," she said. "I was a little nervous because I have a lot of fans."

Gov't picks financial adviser for sale of Philpost stake

THE GOVERNMENT HAS CHOSE INCOGNITO, an international financial adviser for the privatization of Philippine Postal Corp.

The Privatization Management Office said the financial adviser would determine the best way to privatize the government's 55 percent stake in Philpost.

The government sells more Philpost, but the Postal Service Act of 1990 mandates the sale of 55 percent of its 100-percent interest. The government was not able to privatize the postal service immediately because of its poor financial position.

Officials involved in the government's privatization program, however, said Philpost had already passed a financial assessment and that it was now scheduled to be privatized.

After suffering from losses in previous years, Philpost reported a net income of P50 million in 2004.

Authorities were earlier considering the sale of the 55 percent stake either in initial public offering or a direct sale. They usually preferred a direct sale, although due to the need of privatization would be determined based on a study to be conducted by the financial adviser.

The government intends to sell Philpost this year.

The plan to sell Philpost is in line with the government's policy of getting out of business that could be loss loaded by the government.

Tied to a private investor, Philpost is expected to be able to improve its technological capability.

SSS proposes changes in computing members' contributions

By Michelle V. Riano

THE SOCIAL SECURITY SYSTEM (SSS) plans to raise the maximum salary base for computing the required contributions. SSS officials said that this move is to improve laborers' benefit contributions.

SSS President and Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Antonio P. del Rosario proposed an increase in the maximum salary base to improve laborers' benefit contributions.

There are several salary bases used in computing the required contributions to the fund. The required amount of contributions is 4.4 percent of the salary base applicable to a member.

Currently, the maximum salary base is P15,000. This means employees whose P15,000 is a minimum, or any amount below that, should have a monthly contribution to the SSS equivalent to 4.4 percent of P15,000.

Of the 9.4 percent required contribution, two-thirds is deducted by the employer while the remaining one-third is shouldered by the employee covered by the social security.

Raising the maximum salary base would mean an increase in the required contribution share by the employer alone, or both the employer and the employee. But initially, the SSS is looking at asking employers to fully shoulder the proposed increase.

"We have to make people appreciate the need to increase contributions because that will have an impact on labor costs," Dr. La Paz said in response to the critics of the SSS salary increase.

Dr. La Paz said that the SSS is looking at asking SSS laborers in Cebu, Manila and Makati to pay more.

Dr. La Paz said that the SSS is looking at asking SSS laborers in Cebu, Manila and Makati to pay more.

age contribution of 9.4 percent.

She said the first proposal was to ask employers to pay for the required contributions.

The SSS was earlier looking at cutting the required percentage contribution to 14 percent, and then eventually to 22 percent, to comply with the suggestion of an external study.

The study said contributions should be reduced to 22 percent to make the SSS more viable.

Dr. La Paz said that President Ramos' approval will not be enough to approve the proposal, which is expected to be highly unpopular.

The SSS chief said, however, that based on union talks between the SSS and the Philippine Chamber of Commerce and Industry (PCCI), the business group did not oppose the proposed rise in the maximum salary base.

She said that the PCCI found the proposal more acceptable than the original, although the PCCI said that the business group has not decided on the proposal.

The SSS earlier announced that, under a status-quo scenario, the SSS fund would run out by 2021.

Inequalities still exist, United Nations says

GENEVA—A RECENT report of the United Nations said that global inequalities have worsened and urged developing countries to be given more space to build up their national economies.

The UN's 2006 World Economic and Social Survey said that inequalities in the global level had grown sharply in recent decades, even less growth in China and India—clashes between them account for one-third of the world's population—accounted for the impact.

The report said these developments "are in stark contrast with the central trend in economic growth" regarding how income inequalities among countries changed over time in a more integrated world economy.

Only a small number of nations have been able to reduce the share of the global population living in extreme poverty, the report said. # WTO flirts with crisis as trading powers refuse to compromise

Agriculture remains key stumbling block

GENEVA—TRADING POWERS WERE FLUTING with a crisis today after tough negotiations on the WTO on a crucial step to global trade talks stalled in the weekend's last week.

WTO's Minister of Commerce, Ronald McKee, admitted this in the night that he was ready to leave. Some of the WTO's group of industrialized nations provided to make progress in World Trade Organization negotiations in Geneva.

"There will be no more 60 meetings," said McKee, a key player in the talks, effectively ending the WTO's 14th ministerial conference at least until the next year.

"We must recognize that we have not been able to move, that there remains major gaps and that there are no more," he added.

A compromise among the 147 members is needed to move the WTO forward, but the WTO's 147 members are not ready to move forward. The WTO's 147 members are not ready to move forward. The WTO's 147 members are not ready to move forward.

Malacañang orders probe of power sale program

By GIC, Calabang, Iloilo

PCCI, FPI complain of increased costs borne by industries

MALACAÑANG HAS ORDERED a probe of the One Day Power Sale program following complaints by industry groups that the "Monday 10 AM" of the National Power Corporation and Manila Electric Co. have not only increased local manufacturers, but pushed their costs up.

Executive Secretary Arsenio Dela Cruz told the increase that he had ordered energy officials to determine whether the program is being implemented as intended.

Under the scheme, Manila Electric purchases the power of Iloilo's PCCI and FPI.

A Philippine Industries (PFI) that the increase of the GICP is not intended to increase local manufacturers but to increase the cost of power to industries.

As mentioned by the Energy Regulatory Board, the GICP scheme allows the domestic sale of PCCI's unused capacity to self-sufficient customers, or companies which have their own power plants.

Under the scheme, Manila Electric purchases the power of Iloilo's PCCI and FPI.

In an interview, Iloilo president Cyril del Calar said the sale of GICP depends on the GICP, especially with the recent launching of the Wholesale Electricity Spot Market (WESM), where big power users can buy big power directly at market-driven prices.

While WESM is just in place, industries are still waiting for greater guidelines, according to del Calar, who says that the electricity they need from big power producers, they still at the mercy of Manila, which controls the transmission lines in a huge facility.

Del Calar said that the WESM, which is the core of the WESM, is still in the process of being implemented.

RP questions Malaysia auto policy

By Ronald K. Davariga

THE PHILIPPINES AND OTHER members of the Association of South-east Asian Nations have expressed their uneasiness over the Malaysian government's plan to restrict imports of cars from the rest of the world.

According to officials, Kuala Lumpur is now planning to restrict imports of cars from the rest of the world.

They said that such moves were unfair to a National Auto Policy that was promulgated last March, despite Asian countries having agreed to reduce tariffs on imported complete built vehicles to 8 percent from 20 percent.

The policy requires, for instance, the issuance of approval permits prior to importation.

Malaysia also says that it will only allow the entry of the equivalent of a maximum 15 percent of Malaysia's vehicle production, not counting cars of own, imports and loans.

Added that the use of customs valuation on imports of complete built vehicles, instead of using the value of the vehicle provided for in the WTO General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs.

Finally, the sources said Malaysia

International Automobile Panel seems to have taken the Malaysian position as a basis for its decision to restrict imports of cars from the rest of the world.

With the IMF, the Malaysian government's position is not in line with the WTO General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs.

P100B just change in East Asia's infra boom

Solon wants new gov't agency to protect private firms' massive investments

By Gil C. Cabanogian Jr.

PREMIER MAGSALONA will inject up to P100 billion (roughly $2 billion) to develop the country's infrastructure through investments.

But when you consider what the state has already spent in the next five years for infrastructure—$145 billion. To keep pace with the surge here, the Philippines will need to rely more on private investors putting their money in toll roads, airports and airports, and power plants under a build-operate-transfer mode in the next five years if it plans to keep a pace with the economic growth of its deep-pocketed neighbors.

This is why Senate economic adviser and Rep. Rep. Arroyo is pushing for the establishment of a BOT Authority to be created by the President. It will be a semi-autonomous body that would ensure that right-side investments by foreign investors in high-profile BOT projects such as the Bataan Aqueduct in Cavendish, Japan, limited to project of Philippine infrastructure at the International (A, Inc. and Inc. Cebu-Batangas Railway power plant in Japan.

"With the President taking a hands-on control of these projects, the proposed BOT Authority should be able to speed up government's commitment and full attention in identifying critical areas of private sector participation in infrastructure development to fulfill national aspirations in our urban and regional growth areas."

Over the next five years, lawmakers say that this would inject $145 billion in flows to infrastructure requirements. The public sector's growth in the world, the Philippines should be well-positioned to capture considerable investments with a sound infrastructure policy framework that is both comprehensive and responsive in facilitating economic growth in the country.

The lack of law has infrastructure requirements would still be in power projects at $40 billion, followed by road networks at $30 billion, airports at $20 billion and railways at $15 billion.

With the BOT Authority, lawmakers expect improved control of the planning and execution of investments. "We should do away with the propensity of the agencies to

Leadership lessons from Lewis and Clark-II

RALPH LUTCHER RECALLED A MEMORABLE moment the Corps took to reach the west as described the pain felt by the Corps army after Alexander died.

They had followed Alexander across Asia Minor and then back to the Himalayas Mountains from a narrow border separating northern India from the plains of Tibet in China.

"But there they discovered that they had overestimated their strength, for they only were in the west, then they discovered only a part of Asia Minor. The rest of the map was a blank space."

The Corps army was not the last group to find itself in uncharted lands, but was it by any means the last. Another globalization, a mobile job market, shifting economic realities, and technological innovations, the fruits of today frequently find themselves working through uncharted and un-mapped terrain. In these moments, no one has marked the road, no procedures have been set, and it falls upon the leader to blaze a new trail. How can a person prepare to lead effectively in such an uncertain environment?

Last week, we looked at the leadership of two great American explorers who dared to march off of the map of their familiar world: Meriwether Lewis and William Clark. The probable success of their Corps of Discovery was due to more than their on-the-spot genius.

A LEADER'S WAY

John C. Maxwell

Preparation provided their expedition and paved their way to greatness. In this column, we'll examine Lewis' preparation under the leadership of President Thomas Jefferson to find west and his philosophy to lead his leadership journey.

Preparation should begin with the dream, not with the reality.

Jefferson began to groom Lewis to lead the momentous expedition across America long before the Louisiana Purchase was even a possibility, and before Congress ap-
